

Fakhruddin Shamsheer Barodawala

Fakhruddin Shamsheer Barodawala is a lecturer at the Faculty of Optometry and Vision Sciences, SEGi University, Malaysia. He graduated and received his master's from the Lotus College of Optometry, Mumbai, India, after which he pursued his career in academics and research. Fakhruddin has been associated with SEGi University for over eight years, and is involved in teaching contact lenses, dispensing optics, and advanced ophthalmic care. He has also been awarded fellowship by the Association of Schools and Colleges – India (ASCO-India) under the speciality of Dispensing Optics, the International Association of Contact Lens Educators (IACLE), the American Academy of Optometry (AAO) and the British Contact Lens Association (BCLA). He is also the recipient of the IACLE Travel Award for 2019. His clinical expertise includes fitting irregular corneas and orthokeratology. He has several publications in the field of public health and contact lenses and has presented papers at national and international conferences. Fakhruddin is also the conceptualizer behind an online education initiative known as “Online Optom Learning Series (OOLS)”.